COSMO KLEIN & the Campers

Following the international acclaim of their 2023 debut album “Soul Fiction,” COSMO KLEIN & THE CAMPERS have established themselves as one of Europe’s most exciting contemporary soul and funk collectives. Founded by singer, songwriter and multi-instrumentalist Cosmo Klein, the project brings together some of Germany’s finest musicians alongside internationally renowned artists. The debut featured outstanding performances by Cory Wong (Vulfpeck), Brian Frasier Moore (Justin Timberlake), Benny Greb, Claus Fischer, Thomas Stieger, Felix Lehrmann, Noah Führbringer, Hanno Busch, Thorsten Skringer, Peter Weniger, Jakob Manz and many more.

Deeply inspired by icons such as Prince, Marvin Gaye and James Brown, the band has developed a sound that effortlessly blends soul, funk, jazz and pop while remaining unmistakably its own. As Music Headquarters put it: “Cosmo effortlessly merges soul, jazz and pop into a sound that is uniquely his own.”

With “Jumping Bird,” COSMO KLEIN & THE CAMPERS present their most focused and uncompromising work to date—a groove-driven journey through modern funk, timeless soul and exceptional musicianship.

Recorded at Beattime Studios and noisy Rooms Berlin, the album captures the chemistry of a world-class live band while showcasing sophisticated songwriting and Cosmo Klein’s unmistakable voice. Featuring Cosmo Klein (vocals & drums), Stefan Fuhr (bass), Ruben Grosse (guitar), Florian Menzel (trumpet & flugelhorn), Marc Doffey (tenor saxophone) and Tini Thomson (baritone saxophone), the album bridges classic influences with a fresh contemporary sound.

With more than 200,000 monthly Spotify listeners, chart success in countries including Portugal and Brazil, and concerts around the globe, Cosmo Klein has become one of the few German soul artists with a truly international audience. His career is built on original music, outstanding musicianship, exceptional live performances and uncompromising artistic independence.

Beyond his work as an artist, Cosmo is an acclaimed songwriter, producer and multi-instrumentalist, collaborating with artists such as Sasha and Nico Santos while contributing to numerous television and film productions. On “Jumping Bird,” he takes on the drums himself for the first time on a CAMPERS album, shaping the record’s groove from behind the kit as well as behind the microphone.

Released through his independent label COSMOPOLYTIX, the project reflects a clear commitment to artistic freedom and the enduring value of music.

The complete digital album will be released worldwide on December 18, 2026, following a series of monthly singles beginning in May that gradually reveal the journey of “Jumping Bird.”

The full album is already available as an exclusive physical edition through COSMOPOLYTIX.com and at COSMO KLEIN & THE CAMPERS live shows. This release strategy is more than a distribution model—it is a statement. In an era where music is often treated as disposable content, the band deliberately celebrates the physical album as a meaningful artistic format.

By putting the physical release first, COSMO KLEIN & THE CAMPERS stand for craftsmanship, sound quality, artistic independence and a deeper connection between artist and audience. “Jumping Bird” arrives on streaming platforms only after its journey has already begun in the hands of listeners who truly value music—not simply as content, but as culture.

Tracks such as “Can’t Get Enough” showcase the band’s infectious funk energy, while “Grand Pa” and “A Little Bit More” reveal a more intimate and emotional side. With “Who Came to Party,” Cosmo pays tribute to funk pioneer George Clinton and the enduring legacy of P-Funk.

Throughout 2026 and 2027, COSMO KLEIN & THE CAMPERS will bring this music to stages across Europe with an explosive live show combining virtuosity, entertainment and irresistible groove.

The journey continues: another album is already scheduled for 2027. Thanks to the collective’s highly creative workflow, the band has established a sustainable way of releasing new music regularly without compromising quality, musicianship or artistic vision.

COSMO KLEIN & THE CAMPERS are just getting started.

“Jumping Bird” is modern funk with soul, purpose and heartbeat—performed by a band confidently forging its own path.
